MISSISSIPPI 4-H CLUB HEALTH PROGRAM

Mississippi's 4-H Club Health Program became sponsored by the Lamar Life Insurance Company with the recent signing of the contract by F. E. Lusk, Jr., vice-president of the company. Looking on are R. O. Moncouth, state 4-H Club leader; and Mrs. Annette Bontwell, Extension Service specialist in health education.

A number of awards for this year's 4-H Club Health Project winners will be given by the sponsor of this activity. The Lamar Life Insurance Company, according to the state 4-H Club department at State College.

A girl and a boy from each county will receive a free trip to county 4-H camp this summer as Class I county health winners (12 to 13 year age group).

For 4-H members 14 years of age or older, health competition will be held at State College during State 4-H Club Congress, June 23-27. The first contest, in which the sponsor offers five awards, will be an individual or team demonstration on any subject of health improvement and practices. The second, with 20 awards for older 4-H members, will be a contest divided into two parts, swimming and diving. Certificates will be issued to all winners.

The 4-H Club health program encourages better preventive health practices among boys and girls, including regular physical examinations and early correction of any defects found. It also helps members take responsibility in promoting community health and safety, and in gaining a better understanding of available public health and medical care services.

to him foreign type of battlefield, the forum of American politics. For months these representatives of the press had looked forward and for country generally, both friendly and hostile, had anticipated this opportunity to have the answer to the oft repeated question, "But who knows what Ike stands for?" At least that question has been answered now. For, candidate Eisenhower was not spared or deferred to as General Eisenhower had been by these sharp-witted scribes of the press.

It is generally agreed that his answers as candidate Eisenhower were even more forthright than the answers to the same questioners had been by General Eisenhower because of matters of national security. He took them all in stride from the FEPC to the President's firing of MacArthur, his political enemy. His open declaration of opposition to a compulsory FEPC; his conviction for state's rights as against a strong centralized Federal Government; and his opposition to socialized medicine must have raised a question mark in the minds of many a Southern Democrat, even as it is also bound to have raised an equally sharp question mark in the minds of many of his so-called Progressive backers and the Republican politicians generally.

The big question now is, can Mr. Eisenhower, as candidate Eisenhower, with such deep convictions openly expressed, best the politicians in the Republican Party and receive the nomination at the convention in Chicago next month?

A new oil field discovery appears near tests under way, at J. Willis Hughes' wildcat, the Logan-Shields No. 1, Sec. 20-8N-1W. Operators plan to perforate and test a Wilcox sand section at 4162-63 feet. Total depth of the potential new pool-opener is 6552 feet, with five-and-a-half inch casing set at 4228 feet. A successful completion would further accelerate wildcat drilling in that section.

Trifles & Treasures

We are stopping the discussion concerning the proposed bridge across the Mississippi River at N. O. And we sincerely hope that those who are so much in favor of it will give N. O. the needed such a bridge for many years and the terrific bottleneck at the foot of Canal St. leading to the ferries is an unnecessary hazard.

We recall that many years ago a progressive citizen was threatened at the point of a gun for the part he played in trying to put such an issue over. How anyone could be opposed to such progress is beyond me—unless, of course, one was making a heap of money out of the situation as it stands.

Court-martialed in Hawaii because he expressed himself freely concerning navy discipline, a wealthy young sailor is under sentence of a bad conduct discharge. So, speech is not always free.

In civilian life, young Bruce Hoppling of Fort Newark, N. J. is vice-president of a lumber company.

Wielding tremendous power, a simple little song once brought about a nomination for the presidency and raised its composer to be crowned for treason! Later the same time, with slight changes in its wording, helped elect another president.

Songwriter Septimus Winner's first success in 1865 was "Listen to the Mocking Bird," for which he received only $5, although the song sold more than 20,000,000 copies.

Seven years later Winner was still searching for another song that would be a hit and make money. It was 1872. The Civil War was in full swing. The song idea came to Winner when he visited Washington.

President Lincoln had removed Gen. McClellan from command of the Union Army. Winner decided this was a good song subject. He hurried back to his home town of Philadelphia and wrote the song: "Give us Back Our Old Commander: Little Mac, The People's Pride."

Soldiers quickly bought 80,000 copies, and civilians sang it everywhere. Secretary of War Edward M. Stanton thought it had taste for soldiers serving under one commander to sing for the return of another. Stanton had Winner arrested for treason, later releasing him after the composer promised to burn all remaining copies of the song.

Yet the song so popularized McClellan that he received the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1864. It didn't put him into the White House, but when Gen. U. S. Grant ran for president, his supporters used the song by changing the words to fit the candidate. Jimmie Durante, a youngster of 59, has been a big hit on television, but he's now entertaining London audiences.

Maybe we mentioned this before (seems like we did) but—American women's feet are getting bigger, while they are looking smaller all the time.

The feet of our women have grown more than three sizes in the last two generations. This may be because our gals are on the feet longer and are a lot more active than their predecessors were.

But, wispy straps, thin soles, and teetering heels tend to minimize their lengthy contents.

Today the average American woman wears a 7½ B shoe. A generation ago she wore a six, and back in grandmother's day the average size was a diminutive 4. But granny's high-laced, pointed shoes probably made her feet look longer than her granddaughter's open-toed spike-heeled pumps do today. (Our own particular grandmother wore the high-laced shoes so many years that gradually her ankles became several sizes smaller than the leg above the shoe top, from being so tightly laced.)

most of the stars in the entertainment world are youngsters in their twenties or thirties, busting with pep and vigor. In fact many theatrical youth and television headlines are so full of life that the public tends to think of entertainment as a young person's field.

But think again. There's a surprising number of stars who still have the energy to put on a rattling performance in their forties and fifties. Even more surprising are the performers who still shine in their sixties and seventies.

To be a singer at 60 is not easy. Entertainment calls for superb physical condition, mental agility and ability to spend long hours at work in tedious rehearsal (to wit: Carrie Fennell). Yet, there are top-flight entertainers who are doing right well for themselves at advanced ages.

Take Pat Rooney, who was born in 1880. He's famous for his work in Boston 67 years ago, she made her first appearance as a singer in Hartford, Conn. in 1905.

Billie Burke, who was born in Washington in 1886, made her debut as a singer in 1902. She still appears as a flutist in movies.

Marianne Moore, Pulitzer Prize winner, insists that she is "tenderly" and "even though" she writes "satirical" and "trapped" by Indian influence. She was born in 1897 in St. Louis and for twenty years has lived in Brooklyn—far cry from the Stamps to the lot's lover to write about.

The curious and exotic flavor of the poet's writing was gleaned according to her own notes, from thoroughly American sources such as the movies, circus, telephone company leaflet, inscription on a park statue, and a publication from the United States Department of Interior—a unique accumulation of data, to say the least.

Miss Moore's background includes part-time work in the New York Public Library reading and for years as acting editor of Dial Magazine. She won this year's Pulitzer Prize for poetry for her "Collected Poems," first published in December.

She states frankly that she is not a prolific writer, but says she "likes things made clear."

90 ENROLL IN BAPTIST VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Ninety boys and girls were enrolled in the Daily Vacation Bible School which opened at the First Baptist Church Monday, June 9.

The children marched from the rear of the church with O'Neil Bennett carrying the American flag, Kenneth Lader the Christian and Larry Watkins the Bible.

Following the opening scripture, led by the principal Mrs. Schuyler M. Batson, the children gave their motto "Fight the good fight with all thy might! Christ is thy strength and Christ thy right, Lay hold on life, and it shall be thine. Thy joy and crown eternally." This was followed by short sentence prayers.

The pledges of allegiance were made to the flags and the Bible led by Mrs. Batson and the children sang one verse of "America the Beautiful."

The beginners and primaries then went to their class rooms with their teachers.

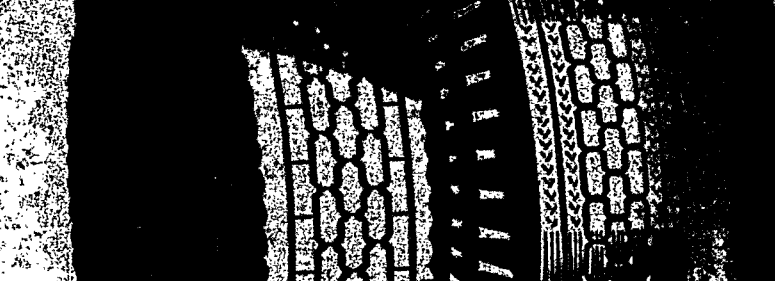

A scripture program was given by the Juniors and Mrs. Batson then told the Juniors a character story "I Love My Church, O Lord" and they retired to their class rooms.

Mrs. A. Cospolich is in charge of the refreshments and Mrs. Earl Raymond is the pianist.

The faculty members are Rev. Schuyler M. Batson, Mesdames L. L. Leach, Kenneth Lader, M. J. Neaume, Kenneth Whitfield, Homer Gregory, A. E. Middleton, M. L. Hill, Hugh Priest, Alec Epperson, Arnold Lee.

CABBAGE PRICES IN COPIAH HOLD HIGHEST LEVEL

A total of 91 carloads of cabbage moved from Hazelhurst shipping sheds the past week, and prices held at the highest level in the history of the cabbage industry, ranging from $3 to $3.65 per fifty pound bag, which figured an average of $140 per ton net to the growers. Beans will be ready for market in ten days or two weeks. Pepper crops are growing fast and by mid-June shipments will be available in carlots.

MOVE TO STRENGTHEN FORESTRY PROGRAM

Trained foresters have been placed in charge of the five district offices of the Mississippi Forest Service, according to James W. Craig, state forester. This move was made in an attempt to strengthen the over all forestry program in the state.

Another move was the placement of law enforcement and education officers in each district to closer unite the citizens with the program and to solicit their help in the protection and development of the 19,000,000 acres of timbered and uncultivated land in the State. "We feel that this program will do much in developing the state's second largest cash crop—timber" Mr. Craig stated.

Trained foresters and their respective district headquarters are: Leon Estes, Northeast at Grenada; James Hardy, East Central at Philadelphia; Freeman Evans, Southwest at Brookhaven; Clifford Morgan, Southeast at Wiggins and E. P. McMillan, Northwest at Rolling Fork.

Law enforcement and education officers are: Hillis Coleman of Corinth, at Grenada; Boyce Bratton of Oxford, at Philadelphia; W. D. Campbell of Pachtuta, at Brookhaven; Harvey Stuart of Poplarville, at Wiggins; and Jack Frost of Oakland, at Rolling Park.
